[illegible] Distress in Ireland—Foreign Affairs [illegible]

[illegible]

Charles [illegible] Warwickshire [illegible] gave [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible] Ireland [illegible] relative [illegible] distress [illegible]

E B Hon Robert Mowbray, conservative member for Oxford university, moved an address in answer to the speech from the throne.

Gov[illegible] in seconding the motion stated that the distress in Ireland was not so general as has been represented. He conceded that any interference with the land question should be conducted with all due safeguards

The Marquis of Hartington said that the great questions ought to be taken up and settled as speedily as possible. He criticised the recent interference of the government in Turkish matters as likely to lead to future complications and pointed out that reforms in Asia Turkey were still in abeyance. The opposition must bear its share of the blame attached to the toleration of obstructions, but had not supported the endeavors of the government to terminate obstruction. The great question he said is still under consideration—the [illegible] dealing with the question of Asiatic reforms. The Austro German alliance gave great pleasure to the government as it is likely to be conducive to the peace of the world. Her majesty's government had no wish for annexation of Afghanistan. The government had not been remiss in taking what steps in Ireland they thought necessary upon information received. The government would ask for a bill of indemnity for loans granted

Speaking of the Austro German alliance he said that he thought it would be well for England to look to her own security. He criticised the annexation of Transvaal and argued that the population of Afghanistan are in a worse position than before and asked for explanations regarding military execution at Cabul. He hoped that the government would at the earliest moment state definitely what steps had been taken to relieve the distress in Ireland. He contended that the government had prolonged the opportunity for obstruction by unnecessarily continuing the existence of parliament

Northcote regretted that the Marquis of Hartington had not given any explanation touching the attitude of the liberals in regard to the home rule question. There was nothing in the state of the country rendering legislation necessary

Shaw then moved adjournment of debate, which was agreed to after a desultory discussion in which several Irish members participated as to whether Shaw should move his amendment before or after the government's proposals had been made known

Sir Michael Hicks Beach, colonial secretary, has confirmed a report published January 10th that England had secured from the king of the Ashantee of the gold coast of Africa, a cession of a strip of his sea board extending two miles inland as a measure of preventing the smuggling of spirits into British possessions on the gold coast by American traders

Debate on the home rule amendment to the address then began

Stanhope, under secretary of state for India, replying to a question, stated that he could produce the dispatch in which the Duke of Argyll telegraphing Shere Ali in 1869, when he was Indian secretary, styled Queen Victoria Empress of India.

Stanhope confirmed the report that certain correspondence between the Ameer of Afghanistan and the Russian government had been discovered in Cabul, but said that it is not in the interest of the public service to publish

Wm H Redmond, home rule member for Wexford, moved, and T O'Gorman Mahon, home rule member for Clare, seconded the amendment to the address

William Shaw, in a speech in support of the amendment, said that he did not wish to condemn the government for what they were going to do in the future but for what they had done in the past. If the government had offered to make advances to Irish farmers in the first instance at the rate of 1 per cent they might have done much to avert the calamity which is now upon Ireland. The government ought also to have given greater powers to boards of guardians. He said that the gradual process of starvation has been going on in Ireland for some time. He did not wish the government to lavish too much money on public works because the people were demoralized by the manner in which money had been wasted in 1847. It was discreditable to England's greatness that in Ireland three fourths of the people should be reduced to a condition barely removed from actual famine by two or three bad harvests. He acknowledged that the problem to be solved was a difficult one but the difficulty was not insuperable

Northcote next spoke. He found no fault with the Irish members for taking this early opportunity for drawing attention to so important a matter, but they would be going beyond the question of distress by occupying themselves with such points as those dealt with in the amendment. He distinctly denied that the government had allowed the matter to sleep. The report of the registrar general for the past year just received disclosed a very unsatisfactory state of things. The extent of land under crops in Ireland was less than during any preceding ten years. The total value of the principal crops for 1879 are estimated at 23,000,000 pounds against 33,000,000 pounds for the preceding year. The potato crop (1879) was estimated at [illegible] cwt. We estimate it is expected that the yield for 18[illegible] will only be [illegible]00,000 cwt, most alarming decrease. [illegible] government had forwarded to the cabinet information which the government took into serious consideration in inviting the lord lieutenant and others to attend in London. The government found that there was considerable apprehension of a famine in some parts of Ireland. They therefore upon took the precaution necessary until the meeting of parliament. The chancellor said that in a bill which he intended at a later period to introduce there would be provisions authorizing the local government to authorize boards of guardians to supply food and fuel by way of outdoor relief. It would also be proposed to allow boards of guardians to draw upon their extra[illegible] houses. The question of stimulating the employment of labor was one of difficulty, but the government was anxious of doing something in that direction, and they intended to give encouragement to persons to borrow money to [illegible] improvement of their land. [illegible] they proposed to [illegible] loans on easy terms to [illegible] The cardinal [illegible] be [illegible] that [illegible] The car [illegible] would also be asked to make arrangements [illegible]

[illegible] conservative [illegible] he [illegible] with loathing [illegible] their [illegible] agitation which [illegible]

The Recent French Railway Disaster.

PARIS, Feb 4—The calamity which occurred on the circular railroad at Clichy Tuesday night was even more horrible than estimated from the first report. Eleven persons have already died, the most notable among them being Count De Puysegur. The number of wounded is computed at 60, and of these some are likely to die. Dieudonne, engineer of the train, died yesterday. In his ante mortem statement he gave his version of the particulars of the terrible disaster. He was within a few yards of the Argenteuil train before he observed the red lights on the rear car and before he had time to do anything the crash came and he knew no more. Two causes are mentioned as tending to explain the collision. One is the reprehensible practice of dispatching a fast express train a few minutes after the departure of the slow train, and the other the utter insufficiency of the fog signals on the line. At the time of the collision, the express was running at full speed. M Marat, of Place Vendome, who was among the killed, was an eminent architect and had been in the service of ex Queen Isabella of Spain. He seemed to have a presentiment of his fate as he insured his life for $30,000 a few hours before he took the train. M Hayme, stage manager, and M Jolly, comedian of the Bouffes Parisiens, are dangerously injured and in a very critical condition. M De Milleville, brother of the wounded, is the husband of Emilie Brossat of the theater Francais

PARIS, Feb 6—The Gaul is asserts positively that 22 killed and 116 are the total casualties of the recent railway accident

BEFORE THE EXODUS COMMITTEE

James Buchanan, a Prominent Greenbacker of Indianapolis, Known as "The Plan," gives his Views on the Question

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

WASHINGTON, Feb 6—The senate exodus committee held a long session to-day and examined nine witnesses. Most of the evidence brought out was corroborative of that previously given by other witnesses

Jas Buchanan of Indianapolis, a prominent greenbacker and member of the national party of Indiana, was examined. He said that the demand for labor in the state of Indiana is far short of the supply; that never since 1873 had it been so hard that the upper [illegible] of the poor in the vicinity of Indianapolis were not called on to supply food to aid [illegible] men who would be glad to [illegible] if they could only get work [illegible] believed the negroes were not improving their condition by coming to a state already over supplied with labor. He was not influenced to hold this view because of any prejudice against the black race as he had been an abolitionist until slavery was abolished and a republican until 18[illegible]. With reference to Indiana republicans favoring this exodus, [illegible] [illegible] the republican [illegible] opposed to [illegible] [illegible] these negroes [illegible] [illegible] He imputed the motives of those [illegible] a movement [illegible] which was [illegible] by the condition of the [illegible] Indiana, when the party was likely to be [illegible] by the [illegible] of republican voters

[illegible] Why [illegible] a republican government and [illegible] ask to have it [illegible] and say that [illegible] the late [illegible] had [illegible] the public lands. He expressed himself surprised that so many of his republican colleagues had voted last Friday for a disability bill similar to the present one. Thank God he was not of the [illegible] who had such a record. He hoped his remarks would call the attention of the people and soldiers of the north [illegible] the house to [illegible] all over by the application of a new [illegible] in the proceedings of the house

Young [illegible] were to reply but Wood objected on the ground that further discussion was [illegible] and unprofitable. The vote on the passage of the bill was yeas [illegible] nays [illegible]

The house having been in committee for about an hour and not a single bill having been agreed to owing to objection made principally by Warner and Sparks, Bynum moved that the committee rise. [illegible] hoped that the motion would be [illegible] If there were gentlemen who did not desire soldiers to obtain pensions he wanted their names [illegible]

Sparks—I will not appeal from the pension office to you

The motion to rise was defeated, it becoming evident however that but little business could be transacted. The committee finally rose after agreeing to two pension bills and the house adjourned until Monday

INDIAN COMMISSIONER HAYT.

He is Convicted by the Indian Commission of Improper Business Relations with a Subordinate

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

The Indian commission completed its report in the case of ex Commissioner Hayt. After reciting the evidence concerning Hammond and Harlan, Hayt's subordinates, the report says

We can not consider Hayt's excuse for withholding important papers from the secretary of the interior sufficient inasmuch as additional evidence and correspondence submitted to the department of justice together with affidavits in January does not add to the strength of the testimony sufficiently to show which may have not been transmitted before. We can not avoid the conclusion that while one case against ex agent Hart was promptly forwarded to the department of justice for execution with regard to the other case involving more serious charges that neither the commissioner or inspector were sufficiently in earnest. Inspector Hammond admits that in the spring of 1879 he was personally interested in the proposed purchase of the Washington mine and that in August upon the arrival in Arizona of Edward Knapp, the so-called nephew of the commissioner, he devoted much time and attention in assisting Mr Knapp to secure the mine of Mr Hogencamp of New Jersey. Late in the progress of our investigation the following facts were elicited. When Hogencamp telegraphed to Hammond that he would send out a special agent to purchase the mine he replied to Hogencamp, "How shall I know him?" to which Hayt replied, "You know Knapp," which circumstance, if true, connects Mr Hayt with the mining transaction. Mr Hayt does not admit sending the reply. Another fact elicited was that Edward Knapp, the so-called nephew of the commissioner, who figures so conspicuously in this transaction, was passing under an assumed name and was really Edward Knapp Hayt, son of the commissioner, and that he adopted this name at the suggestion of his father. These circumstances coupled with the fact that the commissioner declined to give his testimony until after Hammond had testified, his alleged unwillingness to have General Hammond correct his statement concerning the genuineness of his letter to Hart and the long delay in the prosecution of Hart, though furnishing no positive evidence of the complicity or guilt in compromising a crime for consideration, as was charged, may be taken as sufficient proof that the commissioner was cognizant of the purchase of the mine from an ex Indian agent charged with gross offences through his son under an assumed name. It is proper to state that the secretary of the interior has been kept fully and constantly advised during the progress of our examination, and his desire has been repeatedly expressed that we should probe this matter to the bottom and promptly notify him of all important facts that might be developed. It is also but right to state that we have found no trace or any implication of any officer, clerk or employe of the Indian service in the above transaction except those above named, all of which is respectfully submitted

ALBERT K. SMILEY
WM STICKNEY, for the Com

A G Barstow presented a minority report in which he says that Gen Hammond's testimony, which of all the evidence offered alone connects Commissioner Hayt with the wrong doing charged, was taken on Jan 20th but afterwards altered. In this alteration his testimony on one important point was entirely reversed. Though there are many suspicious circumstances which appear against Mr Hayt sufficient for his removal they do not necessarily imply guilt. These circumstances raise doubts and the accused is entitled to the benefit of them

The report of the committee was adopted by the full board. They also adopted the following resolution

Resolved, That in view of the facts developed in the report of our special committee touching the conduct of the late commissioner this board approves of the action of the secretary of the interior in removing Mr Hayt from the office of commissioner of Indian affairs

[illegible] While the outer part of the [illegible] immediately [illegible] of Cape Disappointment has maintained its usual general depth of water [illegible] north [illegible] Sand Island has greatly contracted in width with its many special [illegible] Sand Island [illegible] feet at low tide. This channel [illegible] showing of the [illegible] now used by [illegible] vessels [illegible] the practical [illegible] of the south channel [illegible] the south channel has materially changed both in depth and width, and the observation [illegible] of [illegible] sand [illegible] in the outer [illegible] indicates a strong tendency of the outer bar to close upon the channel, forcing it [illegible] At the [illegible] of my last [illegible] December 1878 it was stated that the deepening of the water on the submerged middle sands westward of Sand Island near the crossing of a line from Cape [illegible] would [illegible] the opening at that point of a deep water channel directly seaward from the south channel. It was thought at that time that the decline of the south channel would progress at a slow rate until the opening of the winter months, then that channel might possibly be entirely closed under the combined action of the southerly storms and the new channel opened immediately the [illegible] These results, however, have not been fully realized. The southerly end of the middle sands has encroached gradually upon the outer reach of the south channel diminishing its depth throughout but the deepening near the center of the middle sands has ceased, giving but little prospect that the expected new channel will be formed there at an early day, owing probably to the compactness and hardness of the sand at a depth below 12 feet low water and to the irregular action of the currents consequent on the shoaling of the south channel. There is however a deepening of the middle sands two miles to the southward and westward of Sand Island and slightly north of where the line of range beacons on the east end of Sand Island crosses the middle sands. It would seem that this latter point is now the weakest part of the middle sands, and the most probable location of the [illegible] which is to follow the decline of the south channel. After weighing all these changes and considering their effect upon the commercial standing of the port we may say that the south channel has so far declined as to seriously diminish its usefulness to sea-going vessels and that there is a probability of a better channel forming to the northward distinct from the main north channel, the exact location of which cannot be defined with definiteness. At medium tide the entrance by the north channel behind Sand Island is easy and convenient for vessels drawing not to exceed 21 or 22 feet

I now enter upon the subject of improvement. The building of a breakwater in the open sea, to cover so wide a harbor entrance and resting upon such an unstable foundation and exposed to such terrific seas is an undertaking which any engineer may well hesitate to recommend and tremble to commence. The shore line of the harbor on the north side is of a very enduring nature and can never be worn to a dangerous extent by the action of the seas, whilst the south side is a comparatively low spit, composed chiefly of sand, heaped up by southerly storms and constantly undergoing changes in its shore line as the results of these storms. Between the most westerly points of the two shores the sands of the sea have accumulated into vast submerged banks through which there are usually two channels for deep draft vessels, though the most southerly one is seldom maintained in the same unchanging direction for five consecutive years. It is possible to close the northerly channel by running a low water dike from Chinook spit to Sand Island but this would shoal Baker's bay and destroy its usefulness as an anchorage for war vessels in their defensive relations to the batteries on the cape, and besides, might by the destruction of Point Adams widen the entrance to the southward and give no better or more permanent entrance on the south side than now exists. If this be true we must then look to the south shore for the location of a work of improvement, and that improvement must be so made that it shall not obstruct the flood tide and shall give the ebb that direction which will make its scouring influence most effectual in preventing the formation of shoals in the channel on the north side. The improvement which seems most nearly to answer this requirement is a low stone dike, extending from the inside of Point Adams near Fort Stevens along the east edge of Clatsop spit to the 4 fathom curve in the south channel. The dike should rise not to exceed 3 feet above low water and should be built of heavy loose stone placed irregularly by dumping them from the decks of scows or from a tramway on piles sufficiently elevated to be independent of the highest waves

Adopting the general plan of breakwater proposed by the board of engineers for the Pacific coast Feb 14, 1877, for the harbors of refuge on this coast, a dike 25 feet wide at top, built in 24 feet water will have a base of 165 feet. To reach the 4 fathom curve in the directions assumed, the dike would require to be 10,000 feet long. During storms from the southward the waves break heavily at the entrance to the harbor almost normal to the line connecting Cape Hancock with Point Adams. This line is practically the one which the proposed dike will follow. It would seem at first thought that the dike from its exposed position and direction would be required to withstand the full force of the waves, and should therefore be more than ordinarily massive; but when it is considered that the middle sands almost completely encircle it on the northeast side and Clatsop spit offers a wide shoal barrier of defense on the west, we have reason to anticipate that the wave forces will be much broken before they reach the dike and will expend themselves harmlessly against a well built structure. The sand which would be formed behind the dike during long continued storms might be carried over the dike into the channel on the inside but it is thought that it would be in such quantities only as would be easily carried by the ebb tides beyond the point where it could accumulate into an obstruction at the entrance to the harbor. The sand is so unstable where the dike will be located that it is probable that a strong foundation of timber in connection with mattresses will be required to be sunk to prevent irregular settlement of the stone covering. An examination has been made of the hills bordering the harbor and along the banks of the tributary streams to ascertain where stone of a suitable kind and in large quantities can be found. But few quarries have been opened for procuring stone but the surface examinations show that suitable stone is obtainable at many accessible points

It is estimated that a rubble stone dike 10,000 feet long built to the 4 fathom curve will cost as follows

850,000 cubic yards large rubble stone at [illegible] per cubic yard	$1,2[illegible]0,000
Contingencies	[illegible]
	[illegible]

It is practicable to make a training wall for the ebb waters by substituting for the stone dike a double row of piles and filling the spaces with fascines and stone. Such a temporary and experimental dike is however not recommended

A great deal has been said and written about the dangers of the Columbia river bar, but I think a careful examination of the list of disasters which have occurred there and the causes which have occasioned them will prove to the reflective mind that they have been greatly and unjustly magnified, and that the entrance to the Columbia river has no more dangers peculiar to itself or not found in the approaches to other harbors of equal importance on this coast. It should be remembered when comparing this harbor with others that there are but few that have nearly equal depths of water and on which vessels are so [illegible] alone which is most favorable under the winds and seas prevailing at the time [illegible] the north channel [illegible] Cape Disappointment [illegible] [illegible] but the south channel [illegible] from year to year in depth and width [illegible] sometimes is superior or [illegible] for a short period [illegible] then [illegible] to that channel [illegible] [illegible] of any one last three [illegible] [illegible] harbor [illegible] draft [illegible] [illegible] mighty river which [illegible] [illegible] bar of the Columbia river and if it [illegible] [illegible] to make an improvement which will [illegible] by the greater part of the [illegible] [illegible] can scarcely be doubted [illegible] middle sands will be practically [illegible] [illegible] bar will be [illegible] [illegible] that it will be made to cease [illegible] to the Columbia [illegible]

Report of Capt G H. Jessen, Assistant Engineer

UNITED STATES ENGINEER OFFICE,
PORTLAND, Dec 4, 18[illegible]

SIR: I have the honor to submit the following [illegible] of the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

In [illegible] Astoria [illegible] sextant [illegible] two [illegible] Was [illegible] commenced [illegible] by [illegible] for [illegible] Washington [illegible] Oregon [illegible] of the [illegible] Sand Island [illegible] distance [illegible] Cape Hancock [illegible] and the flag staff [illegible] a distance [illegible] United States Coast survey

[illegible] was [illegible] ed on the [illegible] Aug[illegible] [illegible] commenced on the [illegible] the weather and [illegible] the bar permitted [illegible] were made as early as possible out [illegible] soundings were made when it was [illegible] to work with any accuracy on [illegible] water which [illegible] August and September in [illegible] the strong winds set in from the northwest

The method used for the survey was the same as in general [illegible] by the hydrographers in similar work [illegible] was [illegible] steaming at a rate of [illegible] per hour according to the different [illegible] the positions determined by [illegible] sextant angles every [illegible] minutes or at shorter intervals whenever found necessary. Soundings were taken every 20 seconds and plotted on a scale of 1-20,000

Two tide gauges were established—one at Fort Stevens wharf and the other at Fort Canby wharf, Cape Hancock. The readings of both gauges were simultaneous [illegible] every 15 minutes while the survey was in progress. These gauges were carefully compared [illegible] with the gauge at Astoria, the latter gauge having been set by the bench mark established by the United States Coast Survey in 1868 and is 9.54 feet above the plane of reference to which the soundings on the chart are given

There is very little change in the general direction of the deep water channels from the previous surveys of 1876 and 1878 [illegible] survey made by Lieut. A H Payson, Corps of Engineers, U. S. A. The depth in the north channel on the bar is the same as last year, being 23 feet at mean low water. In the south channel, however, the bar has decreased in depth from 1 to 1½ feet since the survey of 1878 and is at present 800 feet wider between the 18 feet curves on the outer edge of the bar, and nearly the same width on the inner edge. The middle sands immediately west of Sand Island, where the north and south channels are only about 800 feet apart and over which it was thought last year a new channel was forming, has only 13 feet of water. There is no indication that this depth is increasing, in fact it would appear that it is diminishing. The current on the flood tide sets across this shoal in a N. N. E. direction with a maximum velocity of 1.2 feet per second and the ebb tide, passing down north of Sand Island where the bold and rocky shore of Cape Hancock changes its course, runs over the shoal with a velocity of 1.5 feet per second in a S by W direction where after passing the shoal, it joins the current in the south channel and sets S W across the middle sands

Since the survey of 1878 Peacock Spit (a mile south of Cape Hancock light) has made about 1000 feet to the southeastward, which is the only change in the north channel until it reaches the N. E. side of Sand Island; here the channel between the 18 feet curves has become very narrow (700 feet wide) and has decreased in depth from 20 feet to an average of 18 or 19 feet at mean low water running in an E. S. E. direction

The shoal at the head or east side of Sand Island has an average width of about 3000 feet with a depth of 10 feet at low water. On the S. E. side of this shoal at station C the current (ebb) sets W. by S. with a maximum velocity of 3.6 feet per second. At Station D, about ½ mile S. S. E. from Station C the current sets also W. by S., passing on the south side of Sand Island with a velocity of 3.0 feet per second. Between these two stations at a depth of about 45 feet, the current appears to divide, running with about equal velocity north and south of Sand Island, the larger portion of this volume of water evidently flowing to the south of the island and possessing strong, eroding power as the submerged beach on the south side of the island falls abruptly from the shore line to a depth of 40 feet, where the center of the island was ten years ago. The N. W. end of the island has since last year's survey made 1300 feet to the N. W. and increased in width from 1100 feet to 2500 feet while the east end has also made to the eastward 300 feet

To the eastward of the line joining Scarborough Head and Fort Stevens no perceptible changes have occurred since the survey of 1868

At station I, Chinook channel, the ebb tide sets W. ½ N. with a maximum velocity of 3.2 feet per second. The flood tide at the same station sets in an E. by S. direction with a maximum velocity of 5.6 feet per second, an increase of 1.4 feet per second over station I caused by the meeting of the north and south channels below this point. In the middle channel at station G the ebb tide sets W. ½ N. 3.0 feet per second, and the flood tide at the same station changes its direction from S. S. E. to E. by S. with a maximum velocity of 7 feet per second

The ebb current in the main channel at Station B nearly east of Fort Stevens, sets N. W. by W. ½ W. with a maximum velocity of 5.0 feet per second and the flood at the same station 1.5 feet per second in opposite direction to the ebb.

The middle sands are situated to the westward of the line connecting Point Adams and Cape Hancock and run nearly north and south covering an area of about four square miles. There is found an increased depth of water since last year's survey

This is demonstrated by the fact that in the survey of 1878 it was found impracticable to run more than a few lines across the sands owing to the low depth of water. The present survey shows an increased depth and a new channel forming, which at present has a depth of 14 to 15 feet at mean low water on the prolonged line of Scarborough Head and Clatsop spit; here the sands between the 18 feet curves are about three quarters of a mile wide and about half mile between the 15 feet curves showing a slight decrease in width from the east side since last year. If the channel east of Sand Island remains open so as to prevent the current from the south channel from setting across the sand immediately west of Sand Island, the lower channel will no doubt in a short time be the main channel straight and deep for some years to come. The decreasing depth in the outer reach of the south channel on the bar proper, has a tendency to throw the current in a straight course through this new channel. North of this channel there lies a shoal one mile square, with an estimated depth of 7 to 8 feet at low water, there is another shoal south of the channel a half mile square with the same estimated depth. On these two shoals, which are parts of the main middle sands, the sea breaks almost constantly

The velocity of the current on the ebb tide on the east side of the middle sands runs at a rate of about 1.5 feet per second in a S. W. direction, and the velocity in the south channel at the inner black and white buoy is about 1.2 feet per second and sets to the S. S. W.

The south channel has not been used for the past three months except by light-draft vessels in ordinary weather. Occasionally however with a smooth bar and a high tide deep-draft vessels, drawing from 21 to 2[illegible] feet have crossed out to sea by this channel although they are delayed frequently from 10 days to 2 weeks awaiting a favorable opportunity to cross the bar

There is now 19 feet at low water in the south channel but on account of the numerous 18 feet shoals across the channel which nearly connects the 3 feet curve of the middle sands with that formed by Clatsop Spit this channel is practically closed to the larger class of ship

The [illegible] of the sea has since the survey of 1868 moved the middle sands in a southeasterly direction and it seems now that in a short time the [illegible] of Clatsop Spit and the middle sands will be joined across the channel. This gradual shoaling indicates a deepening in some other place and [illegible] where is it more plainly seen than in the channel across the middle sands

The north channel is now used by ocean steamers and the deepest draft vessels, as it has [illegible] water than the south channel and runs [illegible] at right angles to the seas, thus possessing a double advantage over the south channel for [illegible] entering which [illegible] over the bar [illegible] winding somewhat like the letter S and the [illegible] broadside [illegible] the seas almost constantly [illegible] going [illegible] and coming in

[illegible] and [illegible] Sand Island is easily crossed at high tides by vessels not drawing over [illegible] as the [illegible] is greatly diminished by the [illegible] of the island

Respectfully submitted

When the Grant boomers are in the silence of their chambers they should prayerfully consider that the Germans are solidly opposed to a third term at the present writing at least and that with the German vote a unit against us Ohio and Wisconsin would be in the noble army of states that are doubtful. There is no use overlooking the fact that this is the situation at the present moment though there is no harm in giving things that might occur within the next six months to change the state of affairs

THE GRANT PARTY

Four years ago the republican convention of Pennsylvania passed by an almost unanimous vote the following resolution

That we declare a firm unqualified adherence to the unwritten law of the republic which wisely and under the sanction of the most venerable of examples limits the presidential service of any citizen to two terms and we the republicans of Pennsylvania, in recognition of this law are unalterably opposed to the election of any person to the presidency for a third term

This was the utterance of a convention chosen by the republicans of the state It was a free utterance, such as would be given again were a convention held wherein the free sentiment of the party was reflected and expressed But a convention made up of delegates appointed by packed committees and ruled by the tricks and gags of party managers and despots seeking their own ends has reversed this and pronounced for Grant for a third term It is the old gang who were in power during Grant's administration working without scruple as to means and methods for recovery of place and power

A similar effort will undoubtedly be made in other important states Grant has abandoned the position of one who was outside of and above all intrigue, and who if he would accept at all would only accept under a unanimous call He has descended into the arena with other contestants to scramble for the nomination It may be said in reply that he has done nothing and that the movement is simply the work of those who desire to make him president and who are acting without any kind of authority or direction from himself But nothing is more clear than that they are acting with his knowledge and consent In other great states the strongest possible efforts will be made to follow the example set in Pennsylvania. They who would make the republican party a personal party or Grant party will try to pack the Chicago convention and forestall its action But disclosure of their purpose will arouse an opposition that will defeat it From this time forward the opposition to Grant will be at least as active and untiring as the efforts of his party to force him upon the convention

Grant is not in the same position as other candidates To him there is an objection that does not apply to any one of them That objection is set forth in the resolution of the republican convention of Pennsylvania, adopted four years ago, when the third term schemers were, as now, at work. There is a just and rational ground of opposition to departure from that long established usage of the republic which has restricted the presidency to two terms and this opposition in the case of Gen Grant is intensified immensely by recollection of the doings of the set whom he had around him. Even if his backers should have the power to do it it would be extremely perilous for them, if they desire the success of the republican party to force his nomination over the protests of so large a body of republicans, especially when it is considered on what grounds these protests are made. From this time forth, republicans who do not want Grant nominated will say so in as plain and strong terms as they can frame into speech. Their opposition need not take the form of a preference for any other candidate for there are eminent men enough from whom the selection may be made—any one of whom would get the united support of his party and honor the position Is there but one man in America?

When went there by an age since the great flood
But it was famed with more than with one man?
When could they say till now that talked of Rome
That her wide walks encompassed but one man?
Now is it Rome indeed and room enough
When there is in it but one only man

Great as Gen Grant is and indispensable as some profess to think him to the country the time will come when the American people will have to do without him It would be well to begin now to get accustomed to this inevitable necessity If no citizen save one is now fit to be president, what shall we do when we have him no longer?

CARDINAL MANNING'S ...

Cardinal Manning, in his article on "The Catholic Church and Modern Society" in the February number of the North American Review, proposes as his object "to ascertain what can be, and what ought to be, the relation of the church in the nineteenth century to the political society of the world in the nineteenth century" He places the church at the head of all authority proclaims its infallibility and sets forth a scheme which is in general terms, a negation of the principles on which popular liberty and government by the people are founded. Our declaration of independence starts with the proposition that all men are created equal, and this is the principle which, under the impulse of the great revolution which began in 1789, has shaken every despotism in Europe to its foundations and enforces everywhere an acknowledgment of popular rights But Cardinal Manning says men were never all equal " and that the first principle of 1789 is the first or chief falsehood of the nineteenth century Also that "the theory of authority, as created by delegation from the people is false," thus flatly contradicting the fundamental principle of our political system which asserts that all authority belongs to the people or emanates from them The church the cardinal insists, has an absolute and indefeasible right to govern the world True there are states which do not recognize the authority which the church claims In such states the church devotes itself to domestic social and civil relations It does not withdraw from the state even under such conditions for that would be "to abandon the natural society of man to its own maladies and mortality It still holds everywhere to its claim to direct no the life of individual men only but the collective life of nations in their organized forms of republics, monarchies and empires And its absolute infallibility in all ages is asserted though it is a fact that the church being made up of human beings is very much of the times in which it exists That is in ages when the people have been ignorant or corrupt the church has been so too Modern nations do not and cannot admit the right of the church to govern the world on the principles and after the manner stated by the cardinal in this article The church may find its field in the individual life and conscience of man in so far as it can reach him by appeal but its right to force its authority on his life and conscience is rejected and the cardinal may as well propose to order the stars in their courses on some plan of his own as to re-establish the right and power of the church to direct the life and policy and government of nations as it did before a schism as he absurdly puts it was instituted by the last three hundred years ... society will continue its departure from medievalism rather than return to the darkness of that despotism over the civil religious and intellectual life of man

COLUMBIA RIVER ENTRANCE

Col Gillespie's report on the Columbia river entrance which we publish to-day contains a great amount of valuable information on a subject of the first importance to the commercial development of the country It embodies the results of latest observations surveys and soundings and is in fact a comprehensive statement of the present condition of the bar with the changes which have occurred since last careful surveys were made

The general plan for improvement of the entrance as sketched in the report appear ... so clearly stated that ... further explanation of it is necessary The sum which the government might expect to expend in construction of a breakwater and harbor of refuge on the coast would likely be less than the estimate for improvement of the entrance of the Columbia river ... expenditure here ... would be a p... ... of ... necessity to the development of the commerce of the whole northwest and ... necessity from the fact that railway construction in the interior will soon bring a vastly increased volume of trade down the Columbia

What Col Gillespie says as to the jetties prejudicial to the Columbia river entrance so widely circulated is but the testimony of every disinterested and competent engineer who has examined the subject So important will the commerce of this section soon become that a practicable improvement like that which he recommends must soon be undertaken and the sooner we begin to make every possible effort to secure it the better

The United Presbyterian ministers of Pittsburg are going to discuss the question How are the discrepancies of the gospels to be reconciled with the theory of the verbal inspiration of the Bible? It is somewhat startling to read this statement as it is the first intimation we remember to have had from such a source that there are any discrepancies in the gospels But perhaps they mean alleged or apparent discrepancies such as those critics who examine the Bible on the same principles of literary criticism which they apply to other literary records and monuments would point out

Among the subjects considered in the report of the chief of the national bureau of statistics for 1879 is the amount of freight shipments by rail from the Mississippi valley as compared with the freight shipped south on the Mississippi The fact appears that during the year 1879 the tonnage carried east by rail was seven times that carried south by the river Twenty five years ago the whole freight took the latter course

The Daily Oregonian.

SATURDAY MORNING, JAN. 7, 1880.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—12:30 A. M.—For central and south Pacific coast regions, generally clear weather; for north Pacific coast region, cloudy and threatening weather and light rains.

CITY.

FAMILY GATHERING.—In the Newburyport, Mass., Herald of December 12th, the following paragraph appears: "A notable family gathering took place on Wednesday evening at the residence of Mrs. Curtis French, on High street, in celebration of the 91st birthday anniversary of her mother, Mrs. Abigail (Bridges) Currier. Mrs Currier was married in the year 1808, by Rev. Dr. Andrews, and became the mother of ten children—of sons and daughters an equal number—all of whom are now living. They are Mrs. William Plummer, Mrs. William Tappan, Mrs. Michael Atkinson, Mrs. Thomas Griffith, William Currier, of Portland, Oregon, Hon. Albert Currier, Edwin Currier, Joseph H. Currier, of Amesbury, and Mrs. Curtis French. These have all married and reared children, many of whom have also married, until at this date the family, comprising mother, children, grand children and great-grandchildren, numbers exactly 100 persons."

NEEDS ATTENTION.—Several complaints have been made by the patrons of the O. & C. R. R. ferry, of the objectionable passageway to the small boat after the ferry has ceased making trips. The only landing for the small boat is south of the pontoon, and the incline leading to the water is covered with several inches of soft tar drippings from the gas works. A few nights ago, a lady stepped over her shoe tops into the tar, and had her garments drabbled with the sticky substance. A gentleman slipped into the tar another evening, and nearly ruined his suit of clothes. The nuisance could be avoided by the railroad company building some steps, or the gas company getting rid of the drippings in another direction.

THE COLLINS-HAMILTON HOMICIDE.—From a gentleman who came down yesterday from Oregon City the following facts are learned of the recent homicide at Mollala Prairie: An inquest was held on the body of Clark Hamilton, who was shot by George Collins on Wednesday. The jury returned a verdict to the effect that Hamilton came to his death from a gun shot wound in the hands of Geo. Collins; that the killing was unjustifiable, and that it was a deliberate, cold-blooded murder. Yesterday the preliminary examination was being held before the justice of the peace for Mollala precinct. The result of the examination is not known at present.

WILLAMETTE ROWING CLUB.—At the annual meeting of the Willamette Rowing Club, held last night in the rooms of the British Benevolent Society, the following officers were elected for the coming year: President, C. EAST PORTLAND ITEMS.

At the last meeting of the board of trustees the time for paying city taxes was extended one month, to March 8. So far only a little over one-third of the tax has been paid.

Among the buildings commenced during the past month are three dwellings for Dr. Royal, corner 11th and streets, one William Everest on 11th between K and L, one for Bob Wade, on K, between 14th and . The cost of each dwelling will be between $600 and $700.

At the board of trustees' meeting Monday evening, the plans and specifications of City Surveyor Campbell for rebuilding the south street bridge were placed before them. It was moved that the board advise for bids for the work. Mr. Buckman, chairman of the committee on streets and public property, stated that the building of the bridge had been included in the proposed improvements of 8th street, and this arrangement the cost of rebuilding the bridge would fall on the property owners in the immediate vicinity, who think the cost should be borne by the general fund and not by individual owners. They are circulating a remonstrance against adding the bridge to the street improvements, and have secured a number of signatures.

East Portland has held the same increase in the value of real estate which the main city on the west side of the Willamette shows. THE OREGONIAN reporter called yesterday on Crane & Crellz, real estate dealers, who state that there has been an advance within the past year of at least 25 per cent in the market value of all sites of unimproved property, mainly in those centrally located portions, in Holladay's, Stevens' and other additions. Lots between C and D, 5th and 6th streets, which were sold a year ago for $425, brought last week $650. A sale of $1000 cash was made Thursday for a store on I street, between 4th and 5th, which was bought less than 15 months ago for $600. Sales of real estate during the month have more than double those of July, 1879. Inquiries are principally for residence property, there is some demand for business properties. The prospects for builders are nevertheless flattering as this spring.

It is Dr. Boschee's famous German prescription, and is prepared with the greatest care, and no harm can be entertained in administering it to children, as per directions. The sale of this medicine is unprecedented. Since first introduced there has been a constant increase and without a single report of a failure to do its work in any case. Ask your Druggist as to the truth of these remarks. Large size 75 cents. Try it and be convinced.

Various Causes—

Advancing years, care, sickness, disappointment and hereditary predisposition—all operate to turn the hair gray, and either of them inclines it to shed prematurely. AYER'S HAIR VIGOR will restore faded or gray, light and red hair to a rich brown or deep black, as may be desired. It softens and cleanses the scalp, giving it a healthy action, and removes and cures dandruff and humors. By its use falling hair is checked, and a new growth will be produced in all cases where the follicles are not destroyed or glands decayed. Its effects are beautifully shown on brashy, weak or sickly hair, to which a few applications will produce the gloss and freshness of youth. Harmless and sure in its operation, it is incomparable as a dressing, and is especially valued for the soft lustre and richness of tone it imparts. It contains neither oil nor dye and will not soil or color white cambric yet it lasts long on the hair and keeps it fresh and vigorous. For sale by all dealers. Hodge, Davis & Co., Portland, wholesale agents.

Sold by all druggists. Hodge, Davis & Co., Portland, wholesale agents.

MINTIE'S NEPHRETICUM, the great Buchu Compound. It is the best prescription ever compounded for these troubles. Childs, druggist, Portland, says: "Sold lots of it; it always does the work." Many have been cured of obstinate kidney complaints after the doctors gave them up. Sold by all druggists. THE MONMOUTH MURDER.

The Salem Statesman contains the following details of the killing of M. Crosserly by Richard Johnson:

"A rather notorious character named Dick Johnson, who resides somewhere on the Luckiamute, came to Independence with his wife to do some trading, and while there fell in company with a young man named Crosserly, and the three left Independence and got as far as Monmouth on their way home when Johnson and Crosserly had some bitter words and a fight was imminent, and as Crosserly raised his hand as if to strike Johnson drew a revolver and shot him, the ball taking effect in the breast just below the left nipple, causing death almost instantly. Johnson then took a horse that he had tied to the hind end of the wagon and rode back to Independence, leaving his wife sitting alone in the wagon. After arriving at Independence he hurriedly transacted some business with his brother-in-law named Butler, again mounted his horse and left for parts unknown. The sheriff and a posse of men started in a few minutes later in search of the murderer, but at the time our informant left, no tidings had been received. Monmouth is wild with excitement over the affair, as Crosserly was well known there and beliked by all."

Taxation.

PORTLAND, Jan. 31, 1880.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TELEGRAM: I beg to assure the First National Bank and Ladd & Tilton that I had no desire whatever to challenge their integrity or doubt their tax statements. What I did was to call attention to the fact that the official statements proved in full defense to the county assessors of the various state and county taxes paid by all the banks in this city, including our own (which shows no taxes paid by First National Bank), I shall have no objection to a statement made by a correspondent in THE OREGONIAN, who had not the courage to sign his name or even a cognomen), to the effect that our bank paid no taxes whatever, and secondly, that the statement at the same time deducted every dollar from their property returns of their indebtedness to shareholders at Dundee, Scotland, a statement which the writer, whoever he was, knew to be false. If the Oregonian had, as it ought to have done, asked me before publishing that malicious letter whether the statements therein were true, neither the names nor statements of taxes of the First National nor Ladd & Tilton or any other bank would have been published. But I was bound for the protection of the interests of our bank, to show, by comparison with the other banks' tax returns, that we paid our full share of taxes equally as they did. Pardon me in saying one word: The taxes which all national banks, as corporations, do pay to the United States are no more and no less than what all other banks in this city pay to the United States for the same facilities, including our own bank, excepting this, that national banks are not required as they do not personally pay any State county or city taxes as the other banks in this city do. The taxes which our bank offered to pay and do pay on $100,000 were entirely gratuitous as there is no law to compel us to pay any taxes whatever.

PROF. REES has fitted up offices on corner of Yamhill and First Sts.—No. 174, Room 2. COMPOUND OXYGEN DOES NOT CURE BY THE SUBSTITUTION OF ONE DISEASE FOR ANOTHER as when drugs are taken, but by an orderly process of revitalization. PORTLAND, Or., Jan 11, 1880—This is to certify that I had a cold settle on my lungs, which have failed me to cure in my case (having a bad cold, which had settled on my lungs), and was induced to try Prof. Rees' Compound Oxygen Treatment, which had the desired effect in two days, and in five days treatment I was completely restored to my sound health. JOHN ROBERTSON.

PORTLAND, Or., Jan 18, 1880.—Having taken treatment from Prof. Rees for a severe cold in the head, so bad that I could not breathe through my nostrils, and so severe on the lungs that I could not speak; when I was forced by friends to try the Compound Oxygen, with very little faith, but the first inhalation made me breath freely, and I am convinced that it is the best and quickest method known for the cure of disease, and I cheerfully recommend it to all who are suffering from a Cold or Catarrh in the head. ANOTHER SUFFERER

Snatched from the Grave.

I THINK IT MY DUTY TO SUFFERING HUmanity to make the following statement: My wife's sufferings were unbearable, doctoring all day still she was a mere skeleton. As a last and only resort, I was advised to consult DR. VAN DEN BERGH, as I was told he had but little faith in her ever getting relieved. The Doctor made a very thorough examination, he said it was possible to effect a cure in three months. He stated worms were the cause of the gnawing sensation and the great distress and pain in her stomach; also the female and nervous debility and all other diseases. After taking his medicine for about ten days she commenced getting better and kept on getting better and gained strength and 16 pounds of solid flesh during the treatment. Thanks to the Doctor for saving my wife from an early grave. For any further information inquire at my residence and see my wife herself, No. 66 South Fifth and Sherman streets.

REMOVAL OF A GRAVEL

The Size of a Walnut Without the Loss of a Single Drop of Blood.

After doctoring for seven long years with many doctors and surgeons, and suffering during all that time the greatest pain and agony, no rest day or night, I consulted DR. VAN DEN BERGH, of 212 First street, Portland; he said operation was out of the question, but he would remove the stone, which was the size of a walnut, by drilling. The first drilling lasted five hours and brought one half of the stone away in small gravel and sand, and not a single drop of blood, which gave a great deal of relief. The following week, after two and a half hours of skillful drilling the doctor ground the remainder of the stone also in fine gravel and sand without the loss of a single drop of blood, and thanks to the doctor's skillful treatment I am cured of the most agonizing and painful malady known to the medical profession. For further information call at my place on Sauvie's Island, Willamette slough. THOMAS WILSON.

ANOTHER LETTER.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

My casual allusion to the loans of the Scottish bank threw its manager into a frenzy of anger. I assure him the reference was wholly innocent of any intention to do his bank harm, and could I have imagined its effect upon him, it would certainly have been omitted. I stated what I did not doubt was a fact, that their notes were all payable in Dundee. Mr. Reid says since 1877 they have dated them at Portland, but that the bank is not liable, under the law, to be taxed in Oregon. Then that can only be because their notes are due to a foreign corporation, and without the state, although dated here. If so, my original statement that their notes were payable in Dundee, was substantially correct. I am told that at the last session of the legislature a bill was introduced providing for taxing foreign corporations under which there could have been no doubt of the liability of Mr. Reid's company to pay its proportion of the taxes, and that it was vehemently opposed by Mr. R. and the "Oregon and Washington Trust Investment Co. of Scotland," and a printed circular placed upon the desks of the members of the legislature in which it was artfully averred that the "Oregon and Washington Savings Bank" paid taxes upon its capital. Of course the legislature was pretty certain to confound the savings bank which was another institution and employed much less capital to pay taxes on, with the Trust Investment Co., and the bill was not passed. If I am misinformed as to any of these facts, I, or you, Mr. Editor, will promptly make correction, and it will be unnecessary for Mr. Reid to fall into a fit of anger and charge malice, etc. Mr. Reid is certainly mistaken in the statement that the debtors of his company did not prior to 1877 deduct their indebtedness from their valuation. I cannot say certainly that all did, but I do know that some did, and I still think that all, or nearly all, did and do—for I suppose the bulk of the unpaid loans of his company are still of dates prior to 1877, and are specifically made payable at Dundee. The proportion of its loans made in the last two years cannot, probably, be large. They must have been small in 1878, for Mr. Reid returned less than $15,000 for taxation that year, and that was for the Oregon and Washington savings bank. There seems to have been no tax paid that year upon loans of the Trust Investment Company, which I understand to be the main concern. Nor does the investment company appear in your list of "Heavy Assessments" for 1879, and I therefore infer no tax was paid by that company for that year. If I am mistaken, Mr. Reid will correct me. I would not do either of his banks injustice, and if I have any other feeling than indifference towards them, as of the others, it is that of friendship.

I did not set out to complain, and did not, in my first letter, complain of his returns for taxation. I only referred to the matter in accounting for the discrepancies of the assessors' returns of the state. But since he has made querulous issue in that respect, and claimed merit for returning $100,000 for taxation, when his attorneys instruct him he is not liable to be taxed under our laws, I would suggest in the interest of equal taxation that the legislature ought to provide for taxing the capital of foreign corporations engaged in doing business in our state. There seems to be no reason why all property should not bear its proportion of the public burdens. And, it appears to be pertinent to mention in this connection too, that a citizen of Albany, one whose employment best enables him to know of any citizen of the county, and whose probity and character are not questioned, expresses the opinion that Mr. Reid's loans and mortgages in Linn county, amount to from $500,000 to $750,000. I have heard of no expression as to the amount in other counties, and they may be larger in other counties, than in Linn proportionately, than in the other Willamette counties.

THE NORTHWEST.

Western Oregon.

The Polk county democratic convention will meet March 20th.

"Uncle Sammy" Gothard of Dallas cut his foot seriously last week.

Iron mains for the Albany water works have arrived and will soon be laid.

Cordwood is floated down the Santiam canal from near Lebanon to Albany.

The Lower Alsea has received a large immigration during the past year, and all settlers are well pleased with the country. There is still room for more.

Geo. Mellette stole some wheat from Richard McDaniel of Independence last week and skipped out with the proceeds of its sale. He was overhauled and is now boarding out a fine of $100.

A hook and ladder company has been organized at Albany with twenty-nine members. Following are the officers: Jos. Allison, foreman; Fred. Durning, 1st assistant; H. J. Clark, 2d assistant; Geo. Humphrey, president; W. R. Blain, secretary; Fred Graf, treasurer.

Corvallis Gazette: The Alsea bay would be a splendid location for a cannery—salmon of the choicest varieties being abundant in their season. There is also a fine location for a store. A good man, with a small stock of general merchandise, would undoubtedly do a paying business from the start, and of course his trade would develop with the country.

John C. Kitton, Stephen E. Belknap and Edward M. Belknap have organized a plow and agricultural implement company, and will establish extensive works at Corvallis. All members of the company have had thorough training in the business in Michigan, and will be able to apply both capital and experience to the new enterprise. They have leased the Gaylord property, corner of Third and Jackson streets, at Corvallis, for five years. A part of their machinery is already there, and more will soon follow. The building is to be refitted, and a new forty horse power engine will be placed in it to run the machinery of the business. Only Oregon iron and wood will be used in their manufactures.

A SCHOOL ROW.—One day last week the usually tranquil little hamlet of Silverton was considerably exercised over a school row in which the mother of the boy whipped, and the teacher of that excellent institution, were the principals. The teacher wanted the boy to go to the blackboard, and it appears she slapped him on the shoulder, whereat he got mad and went home and reported to his mother. The mother not believing in corporal punishment of the young, armed herself with a stick and went to the schoolroom and struck the teacher, grabbed her by the hair, threw her on the floor and pummeled her. The principal of the school, Mr. Buff, hearing a disturbance down stairs, went below and taking in the situation pulled the irate mother off. About this time the father of the boy appeared and made demonstrations as if he intended to pull a pistol; Mr. Buff was too quick for him and drew a knife, which stopped proceedings. Warrants for the arrest of the father and mother were issued, and after a hearing before the justice the woman was fined for assault and disturbing a public meeting. The directors did not care to push the matter any farther, so the charge against the father was dismissed.

LONDON, Feb. 6.—Consols 98 3-16.

Silver—English standard, per ounce, 925 fine, 52¼ closed.

U. S. Bonds—5s, 105½; 4½s, 111½; 4s, 108.

LONDON, Feb 5.—Consols 98 1 16, fours, 108⅝; new fives, 105¼; Erie, 39¾.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—Money 5@6; governments quiet; W. U. 103½; Erie 47½.

CHICAGO, Feb. 6.—A New York special says: shipments of gold coin by steamer Frisia is probably a special shipment, as at ruling rates for foreign exchange for several weeks past gold could not be imported as exchange operation without loss. The market for foreign exchange is quiet but strong.

Advices from abroad indicate an improved tone generally in the wheat market, with more strength in the demand both in Great Britain and on the continent. Holders in the home market are firm in their views, and but few could be found to-day who would be willing to sell at $1 90, while for good shipping lots buyers are bidding $1 85@1 87½ per cental. There are several ships overdue, the charters to some of which have expired, and should they arrive at present would be obliged to wait or accept reduced rates. Flour is still in good supply and some agents of state mills are making some reduction in rates, the current quotations for jobbing lots of standard extras being $5 75 per barrel. Oats are in ample supply at 40@42½c per bushel, with no important shipping demand.

Other products are unchanged.

NEW YORK FREIGHTS AND MARKETS.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—There is no movement in freight via Cape Horn and the market continues very quiet. Rates are quoted steady, but there are indications that lower rates will rule ere long, arising from competition between laid on and chartered vessels. The ship Wildwood for Portland, cleared out to-day, her cargo chiefly of railroad iron.

Railroad freights have been fairly active the past week, shipments amounting to 7519 pkgs, including 10 bbls, 70 half bbls whisky, 562 pkgs tobacco, 14 bags nuts, 100 kegs herring, 200 cases baking powder, 75 cases canned goods, 25 cases cracked wheat, 3285 bars steel rails.

Markets remain very quiet generally.

Breadstuffs—More active for export than for a long time. Wheat has advanced 2@3c under better market both for the United Kingdom and the continent.

Provisions—Stronger at ten cents higher for lard, but the demand is less active. Pork nominal.

Rio Coffee—Unchanged.

Refined Sugars—More quiet.

Hides—Dull, weak.

Turpentine—Quiet and steady.

Petroleum—Firmer.

SAN FRANCISCO PRODUCE MARKET.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 6.—Onions find ready sale at an advance. Union City $1 40@1 62½; other kinds of good to choice $1 10@1 25; small for pickling, $1 25@1 50.

Butter—The market appears to about hold its own. Any attempt to advance rates at once curtails business, and sooner than allow stocks to accumulate dealers are willing to accommodate the increased demand which the ruling low prices seem to have created. Good to choice dairies are quoted at 24@25c, with advance for fancy article; inferior to ordinary 17@20.

Eggs still tend downward. Market to day easy at 22½@24c.

Hides and skins—Market weak, in sympathy with eastern quotations. The following are cash rates for consignments: dry hides, usual selection, 15c; culls one-third less.

English Wheat Market.

LIVERPOOL, Feb. 6.—A leading grain circular says: Wheat markets during the past few days have been generally quiet with a tendency still in favor of buyers. There was rather more inquiry for cargoes off coast, both for home and continental markets at some improvement. There was little or no demand for wheat for shipment.

At Liverpool and neighboring markets since Tuesday there has been scarcely any business done in wheat, and prices are nominally unchanged. Corn slow and slightly easier. At to-day's market there has been a better demand for wheat and good consumptive business was done at Tuesday's prices. Some lots of white wheat have been bought to hold over. Flour was unchanged; corn was dull and a half penny lower.

Chicago Wheat Market.

CHICAGO, Feb. 6.—Wheat, steady, firmer; $1 20 cash; $1 20¾ March; $1 21⅛ April.

San Francisco Wheat Market.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 6.—Wheat, No. 1, $1 90@1 92½; No. 2, $1 82½@1 87½.

Liverpool Markets.

LIVERPOOL, Feb. 6.—Breadstuffs, steady; wheat, 10s 7d@11s per cental for California club. Receipts of wheat the past three days 241,000 centals, including 160,000 American.

Brazilian Crops.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

RIO JANEIRO, Feb. 6.—Private advices estimate the cotton crop at 250,000 bales.

The coffee crop is reported good and abundant.

Gold and Stock Company's Reports.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 6.

Wheat—Rather steadier; holders less anxious.

Barley—Active and firm.

Corn—Steady.

Flour—Dull; 300 tons choice milling wheat very strong sold yesterday at $1 95, considered an extreme price.

Oats—Choice worth probably $1 40, very scarce; good sells at $1 20@1 30.

Barley—Fair, 75c; good, 80c; brewing, 90c@97½c.

Sweet Potatoes—Choice, $1 50.

Onions—$1 50.

Potatoes—Market overstocked with all varieties, dull and weak, 25c@60c per sack.

Eggs—Cala choice plentiful and weak at 23c@24c.

Hides—Dry and kip and calf weak at 19c.

Dried Fruits—There is very little demand; market very weak. Nuts, do.

Wheat—There were no transactions of importance to day, but seemingly the market is better for local and export. There is less selling pressure for choice, $1 95 asked; $1 92½ bid. The market is affected by somewhat dry weather.

Charters.

Br bark Penang, lumber, Burrard Inlet, to Valparaiso, private.

CHICAGO MARKETS.

CHICAGO, Feb 6.

Wheat—$1 21 March.
Short ribs—$6 40.
Lard—$7 20 March.
Pork—$12 55 March.

NEW YORK MARKETS.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.

Hides—Weaker.
Turpentine—Firmer.
Petroleum—Dull.
Wheat—Strong at $1 38@$1 46.

Do you feel that any one of your organs—your stomach, liver, bowels, or nervous system, falters in its work? If so, repair the damage with the most powerful, yet harmless, of invigorants. Remember that debility is the "Beginning of the End"—that the climax of all weakness is a universal paralysis of the system, and that such paralysis is the immediate precursor of Death. THE GENUINE

FOR THE CURE OF

Hepatitis, or Liver Complaint,

DYSPEPSIA AND SICK HEADACHE.

Symptoms of a Diseased Liver.

PAIN in the right side, under the edge of the ribs, increases on pressure; sometimes the pain is in the left side; the patient is rarely able to lie on the left side; sometimes the pain is felt under the shoulder blade, and it frequently extends to the top of the shoulder, and is sometimes mistaken for rheumatism in the arm. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness; the bowels in general are costive, sometimes alternative with lax; the head is troubled with pain, accompanied with a dull, heavy sensation in the back part. There is generally a considerable loss of memory, accompanied with a painful sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done. A slight, dry cough is sometimes an attendant. The patient complains of weariness and debility; he is easily startled, his feet are cold or burning, and he complains of a prickly sensation of the skin; his spirits are low; and although he is satisfied that exercise would be beneficial to him, yet he can scarcely summon up fortitude enough to try it. In fact, he distrusts every remedy. Several of the above symptoms attend the disease, but cases have occurred where few of them existed, yet examination of the body, after death, has shown the LIVER to have been extensively deranged.

AGUE AND FEVER.

DR. C. MCLANE'S LIVER PILLS, IN CASES OF AGUE AND FEVER, when taken with Quinine, are productive of the most happy results. No better cathartic can be used, preparatory to, or after taking Quinine. We would advise all who are afflicted with this disease to give them a FAIR TRIAL.

For all bilious derangements, and as a simple purgative, they are unequaled.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

The genuine are never sugar coated.

Every box has a red wax seal on the lid, with the impression DR. MCLANE'S LIVER PILLS.

The genuine MCLANE'S LIVER PILLS bear the signatures of C. MCLANE and FLEMING BROS. on the wrappers.

Insist upon having the genuine DR. C. MCLANE'S LIVER PILLS, prepared by Fleming Bros., of Pittsburgh, Pa., the market being full of imitations of the name McLane, spelled differently but same pronunciation.

The Most Successful Physician on the Pacific Coast

IN THE TREATMENT OF ALL

CHRONIC AND DIFFICULT DISEASES.

DR. BRENAN WILL GUARANTEE TO CURE any form of disease of the generative organs or private disease.

He has become an expert in the treatment of disease, weakness and derangement of the reproductive organs of both male and female, including diseases caused by the

FOLLIES OF YOUTH,

Such as SPERMATORRHEA, or SEMINAL WEAKNESS, or LOSS OF PERFECT VITALITY. Nearly two-thirds of all the Chronic Diseases spring, either directly or indirectly, from some derangement of the sexual system, and yet this subject is neglected by the majority of the Medical Profession.

I know that persons who are unfortunate enough to be afflicted by any form of sexual disease have a delicacy in calling upon the proper physician in time, from a sense of modesty and sometimes from ignorance, and permit those diseases to exist until their constitutions become corrupted, their organization broken down and the hope of future happiness blighted, until death becomes a welcome messenger to carry them out of their miserable existence.

Everything strictly confidential under all circumstances.

Lost manhood perfectly restored.

Catarrh, Bronchitis, Throat Diseases, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Kidney Complaint and all Diseases of the Eye and Ear, Stomach and Bladder, he can cure without fail.

Consultation Free. Send a list of printed questions sent to those living at a distance who cannot consult him personally. Enclose postage stamp for list.
